Personal Defense Shotshell

Force X2 Shorty

Federal has combined the power of two of our newest technologies to create a shotshell option that changes the nature of self-defense. Force X2™ Shorty™ shells measure just 1 ¾ inches but hold a payload of six 00 segmenting buckshot engineered to split into two equal pieces on impact. When used with firearms designed to cycle sub-length shotshells like the Mossberg 590S, the loads offer much higher magazine capacities with up to twice the wound channels over standard buckshot loads.

Features & Benefits

- 12-gauge 1 ¾-inch six-pellet segmenting buckshot
- FX2 copper-plated buckshot pellets designed to split in half on impact
- Manageable recoil
- Double the wound channels
- Less collateral damage risk from over-penetration
