Primos Mean Mallard Double Brings Fine-Tuned Sound to the Duck Blind

Flora, Miss. – Primos Hunting, an innovator in hunting calls and products, has introduced a new premium double-reed duck call that's built to hunt. Designed to produce the raspy highs and lows that bring ducks to the water, the Mean Mallard is an extremely responsive call with a rich and authentic sound.

Manufactured with a short wood barrel, machined aluminum collar and threaded acrylic insert, the Mean Mallard Double is constructed with high-quality materials to provide long-lasting durability in the field. The precisely positioned ridges and ditches on the sounding board are expertly designed to help keep the reeds from sticking in cold temperatures.

Perfect for timber or open-water calling, this versatile double-reed, hunting-style call is easy to use and offers a wide range of tone and volume.

Available in April 2014, the Mean Mallard Double has a manufacturer's suggested retail price (MSRP) of $42.95.
